PROSPECT MAN ELECTROCUTED WHILE AT WORK

David McPherson, 41, Instantly Killed by Touching High Tension Wire

TOWN IN DARKNESS

Victim Wiring Carnival Concessions at Prospect When Tragedy Occurs

Prospect, Sept. 23—David McPherson, 41, an employe of the Prospect Electric Light, Heat & Power Co., met practically instant death here at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon when he was electrocuted while working on a high tension pole at the junction of Main and Water-sts.

Efforts made to revive McPherson were without avail. Drs. A. L. Gast and M. M. Dix, Prospect, were summoned to the scene immediately and worked for more than an hour. A call for a pulmotor was sent to the Marion Fire Department and was answered by Fire Chief McFarland and Fireman Dudley Chase who made the trip to Prospect in about 10 minutes actual driving time.

Wiring Concessions

McPherson was engaged at the time of the tragedy in completing the wiring for concessions located on the Prospect streets for the annual fair, which was formally opened last night. On the pole on which he was working is located the transformer hooked to a 2,300 volt line which serves the community. An additional transformer was being placed for the use of the fair concessions. In some manner or other, McPherson came in contact with high power line. The force of the voltage was sufficient to throw the body free of the pole leaving it to hang limply in the safety belt 20 feet above the ground. The body was taken from the pole by Clarence Herr, Prospect, and concession men, later being removed to the Drake Undertaking Parlors.

Town in Darkness

The incident and a steady downpour of rain served to mar the glamour of the street fair opening. The town was in total darkness until after 8 o'clock, linemen from Marion completing the work started by McPherson.

Those surviving are the mother, Mrs. Flora McPherson, Prospect, with whom the deceased resided; two brothers, George and Ralph, Prospect, and one sister, Mrs. Mae Hinklin, Marion. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

FLORIDA WILL STAND BY OWN, SAYS GOVERNOR

Martin Returns from Inspection of Devastated Regions; Plans Relief Work

Jacksonville, Fla., Sept. 23—"Florida will stand by her own."

This statement was made today by Governor John G. Martin as, tired and careworn from an inspection trip over the devastated southern Florida district, he prepared to carry on the state's part in helping hurricane sufferers.

The governor said he would meet today with the Jacksonville Relief Committee which has been recognized by the American Red Cross.

After the meeting, Governor Martin will resume his trip back to the state capitol at Tallahassee, where official state plans for help will be formulated.

Money Needed

With the exception of the Moorehaven and Clewiston districts, immediate needs are being cared for, but money for rehabilitation is needed at once, Martin said. The governor said he did not wish to comment at present on the page one editorial printed yesterday in the Miami News suggesting that a special session of the state legislature be called to appropriate funds for Miami storm sufferers.

The News, which is owned by James M. Cox, former governor of Ohio, and Democratic candidate for president in 1920, stated that Florida with its treasury brimming over would be placed in an unfavorable position if, while asking the rest of the nation for funds, it did not respond itself to the Miami plea.

Marion Couple Celebrating 65th Wedding Anniversary At Their Home Here Today

Mr. and Mrs. Christ Kinsler, 916 Prospect-St, Have Never Been Separated Since Civil War, When Husband Served Under General Sherman

Sixty-five years of married life!

That is the example set for the younger generation by Mr. and Mrs. Christ Kinsler, 916 S. Prospect-st, who today are celebrating their sixty-fifth wedding anniversary.

Mr. Kinsler is 90 years of age and Mrs. Kinsler will observe her eighty-fifth anniversary Friday. Both were born in Germany and came to America when they were 16 years old.

The couple were married in Marion in 1861 and have resided since that time in their present residence at 916 S. Prospect-st.

Just three months after their marriage, Mr. Kinsler enlisted and fought in the 82d Ohio Volunteer Regiment in the Civil War. He served three years and eight months and took part in many of the most important battles coming out of each fray without a scratch. He served most of the war under General Sherman and took part in the famous march through Georgia to the sea.

Separated Once

The time that Mr. Kinsler was fighting in the war was the only time in the entire 65 years that the two have been separated.

When aged Marion man arrived in America he came almost immediately to this city, which at that time was nothing more than a village. Mr. Kinsler expressed Marion 1857 as a village with "few houses and many stumps."

Hardly able to speak the English language Mr. Kinsler hired out to a local farmer at a salary of $3 a month. After his marriage he built the house in which they live, borrowing the money at 10 per cent. interest. It was paid back in due time.

Mr. Kinsler originally was a gardner but during his life he has worked at several trades. Until recent years he was employed in a stone quarry near Marion. His entire occupation now is tending his little garden at the rear of his home. A pension from the United States government pays for the household expenses.

Black Hair

At their 65th anniversary the couple were happy and seemed very contented with each other. The hair that graces

GOVERNMENT WILL HAVE HUGE SURPLUS IN 1927

Treasury Estimates Amount Will Be $200,000,000 for Fiscal Year

Washington, Sept. 23—The federal government will have a surplus of more than $200,000,000 for the fiscal year, 1927, the treasury estimated today.

Income tax receipts for September will total $440,000,000, about $70,000,000 ahead of last year. Collections from July 1 to Sept. 20 were $148,000,000, about $88,000,000 ahead of the same period last year.

While miscellaneous internal revenue receipts will fall short about $200,000,000 this year, the customs receipts will materially increase.

RADIO FACTORY POSSIBILITY IN MARION, CLAIM

COUNTRYWIDE MARKET

Concern Started by A. A. Van Atta Enjoys Brisk Business Since Start

Probability that Marion will have a factory turning out radio equipment for a country-wide market is seen in the remarkable success that has resulted from operations of the Van Bur Radio Co. at its assembling plant in the Schwinger Building on N. Prospect-st.

Market for the company's products has developed to such an extent that a factory in Coshocton, under contract to supply cabinets for its Marion concern, is rapidly approaching the point where it will be unable to fill the demand. The Van-Bur Co. already has 500 orders on hand for console cabinets and the business is steadily increasing.

The Van-Bur Co., which has been in process of organization since last May, was started by Arthur A. Van Atta, president and general manager of the Van Atta Hardware Co. of W. Center-st, and Clarence E. Burk, formerly of Columbus, who now resides at 209 Duluth-av.

The company specializes in two devices perfected by Mr. Burk, who is a pioneer in the radio business. One of these is a speaker cabinet which has met with instant favor among dealers wherever it has been shown, and the other is a long tone travel speaker to be used in all console cabinets.

Prediction that in the course of time, possibly within the next two years, the Van-Bur Co. will be turning out its products at its own facory here, is based upon statements made today by Mr. Van Atta.

Production Starts

Production of the first speaker cabinets began this week at the Coshocton factory following receipt of numerous orders from radio supply firms. One hundred of the cabinets are included in the initial factory production. Or-

SAY AMERICAN DELEGATES MAY LEAVE CONFERENCE

Washington Gives Unqualified Approval to Speech of Hugh S. Gibson

Washington, Sept. 23—The belief that America's delegates to the Geneva conference on disarmament are preparing to withdraw was strengthened here today.

Unqualified approval was given in official quarters to the remarkable speech made yesterday by the chief of the American delegation, Minister Hugh S. Gibson, in which he bluntly told the league powers that the conference was getting nowhere and as matters stood, the whole thing looked like a waste of time.

Action Awaited

Whether actual withdrawal of American delegates will follow this plain-spoken admonition remains to be seen. Secretary of State Kellogg has thus far contented himself with merely saying that America's delegates would remain at Geneva so long as there is any prospect of success. Gibson, however, virtually told the powers there is no such prospect unless and until France and her continental allies cease their obstructionist tatcics. He named no names, but the inference was very clear.

The work of exploring the disarmament question, Gibson pointed out, was delegated to two committees, the first of which was purely a military commission, to consider technical aspects of the question. Yet, this committee, he added, has consistently violated its mission, and insisted upon injecting European politics into its deliberations with the result that there has been

$125 ADDED TO FLORIDA RELIEF DONATIONS HERE

American Legion and Auxiliary Contribute $100, Eagles' Lodge, $25

Florida relief contributions totalling $125 were made by three local organizations at meetings Wednesday evening. Bird-McGinnis Post, No. 102 of the American Legion and the Legion Auxiliary voted to send $100 to Legion headquarters in the stricken southern state and Buckeye Aerie, No. 337, Fraternal Order of Eagles, subscribed $25 to a relief fund being raised by the grand lodge. Other lodges are expected to take similar action at meetings this week and next so that the total contributions from local fraternities and other organizations are likely to reach a substantial total. Special collections are to be taken in the churches Sunday in response to a request from the local Red Cross disaster relief committee.

At noon today there had been no increase in the contributions left at local banks, according to a report from Red Cross headquarters. Donations at the five banks, which were designated as places where voluntary offerings could be left, total only $35.

Messages Received

Two letters received today from former Marion residents in the storm district bring the news that they escaped uninjured.

Smith and daughter Doris Jean, are safe, although they were in the path of the hurricane and their home at Miami was badly damaged. WEATHERMAN TO SMILE ON TITLE BOUT TONIGHT

FINAL COURT MOVES FAIL

Notables To Attend Championship Contest—Tunney Flies to Scene of Battle

BULLETIN

Philadelphia, Sept. 23—Gene Tunney flew to Philadelphia scene of his fight with Jack Dempsey tonight for the heavyweight championship from Shawnee-on-the-Delaware today. He arrived at the navyyard flying field at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon. He was piloted by Casey Jones, noted stunt flyer.

Philadelphia, Sept. 23—Weather conditions at noon today were such that there was every indication that the fight tonight between Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney for the heavyweight championship of the world would be held.

The slight drizzle that had fallen at intervals during the morning had stopped.

The skies were overcast but the weatherman predicted that if rain fell tonight it would not be heavy enough to interfere with the fight.

Final court moves to block the contest failed when three judges refused an injunction to restrain the boxers from entering the ring.

The injunction had been sought by B. E. Clements, of the Coliseum Club of Chicago, who alleged that Dempsey broke a contract to fight Harry Wills, the negro challenger.

Thus the last obstacle in the way of holding the greatest sporting spectacle in history was removed. Some 130,000

ROBERTA RISKS IT

It's a Brand New Sort of Serial Story

It's a gay tale of the sort of thing everybody's dreamed of—but few have dared to do. . . . There are risks of more than one sort, but who cares for risks? . . . Certainly not Roberta and very definitely not "Piggy." (That's not his real name. But he's ashamed of the name his mother gave him.)

WORKERS FINISH CLEANING CITY SEWER SYSTEM

Outlets Now in Condition To Take Care of Normal Rainfall

Workmen under Service Director O. A. Benedict have completed their task of clearing the city's sewer system of the accumulation of debris swept into the sewer lines in various sections of the city and the outlets are now in shape to take care of any normal amount of rainfall. In some parts of the city, too, the sewers are inadequate for emergencies caused by the exceptionally heavy rains of the last few weeks and this problem will not be solved, local officials say, until additional lines are laid.

Fixing Streets

The service director and his men have been giving special attention to placing dirt streets in shape for winter traffic. There are more than 50 miles of this type of unimproved thoroughfares still in use in Marion and to keep them in good condition, particularly during seasons of inclement weather, adds greatly to the work of the service department.

It is impossible to keep some of the dirt streets in the best of condition at all times owing to the fact that they are without sewer facilities, the service director states. Because of this lack of drainage, there is no convenient method of removing refuse and debris following heavy rains. It is expected that provisions for sewers along a number of these thoroughfares will be laid.

LOANS up to $500

Just think how you would feel if on pay-day the pay-master should say, "Sorry, but we can't pay you this week—business bad—no money—you will have to wait." You would feel plenty sore. You might even throw up the job and go elsewhere. And you would be justified, for, having worked hard and earned your pay, you expect to get it.

It is exactly the same proposition to ask the merchant to wait after he has extended you credit, only worse—because he has hundreds of families to accommodate with credit. You can keep your word good and your credit sound by using the finance service of The City Loan in such cases. No use creating ill-feeling by claiming you can't pay when the money is so easily available from The City Loan.

Why Overland's amazing Price Cuts are possible

—on the two most successful cars of their size and price class

Retail sales during July and August were the largest in Willys-Overland history. Over 39,000 were sold in these two months.

The original Whippet production schedule laid out in July called for 500 cars a day. Within 60 days it has been increased to 650. And now, at these amazing new low prices we anticipate a volume of 1000 Whippets a day—and from every present indication it will be quickly attained.

Sales of the Overland Six have also been gaining in tremendous volume. Over 60,000 were made last year. Each month sees another record broken. And at these startling, low prices we believe Overland Six production will reach over 100,000 this year.

Big volume makes low prices possible. Low prices bring big volume. This in brief is the economic reason behind this amazing price reduction.

If orders are placed at once prompt deliveries can be made. The time to buy is NOW!

Section Men Release Stranded Thresher As Pennsylvania Freight Thunders By

... farmer to-... a tractor and ... as the result of ... of section ... Pennsylvania Rail... at the Hillman...

... driving the trac... machine attach... Hillman-Ford-rd.

The tractor made the grade at the crossing but stalled in its efforts to bring the threshing machine across the tracks.

With the tractor on one side of the tracks and the machine on the other, the farmer spied a freight train approaching from the southwest.

In desperation he attempted to uncouple the tractor and grain separator, but in vain. The coupling was drawn taut.

Section hands working an eighth of a mile from the crossing, heard the cries of the farmer and ran to his assistance.

With the freight train only a few rods away, a railroader leaped to the tractor, shot the gears into reverse, and backed the engine a few feet, placing the tractor directly in the path of the onrushing locomotive.

With the taut coupling released, the farmer detached the separtor from the tractor.

The threshing machine dropped to the west side of the tracks and the tractor slid down the east grade. The train passed between them.

They are all $7.50 to $9.00 values

A "Once a Season" opportunity tomorrow and Saturday! Again this season our buyers have been fortunate in securing for us almost a hundred "Salesmen's Sample" Hats at savings of one-third to one-half. We cannot recommend this sale too highly, for we know from previous seasons that the choicest styles and best colors are always to be found in the "Salesmen's Samples."

We urge early selection, for unless we miss our guess they'll go in a hurry at this special price of $4.95—all the newest and best in materials and colors for Fall will be found in abundance for both misses and matrons.

Construction Work Starts On New 100,000 Gallon Tank of Hocking Valley Railroad

Chicago Concern Gets Contract To Build Huge Water Container at Bellefontaine-Av Crossing; Effort Will Be Made To Complete Work Before Winter

Work on the construction of the new 100,000 gallon water tank of the Hocking Valley Railroad at Bellefontaine-av got under way today.

The Chicago Bridge & Iron Works has the contract for the erection of the great tank and within a few days will have at least 12 men on the job in an effort to complete the structure before the winter months arrive.

Erection of the water container is one of the greatest projects under way on the Toledo Division of the Hocking Valley at present. Steel for the tank was placed at Bellefontaine-av several weeks ago in preparation for the construction work.

The tank is to be attached to the new two-mile water line, which extends along the west side of the Hocking Valley tracks from the wells at Garden Cemetery.

Hinges on Weather

The water line will be completely installed by the end of this week if weather conditions remain favorable. Only a few feet of pipe are yet to be laid but this portion of the line is to be placed under W. Center-st. Work began yesterday on the excavating of a tunnel under the street.

The signal crew of the Hocking Valley has been on the job at Bellefontaine-av during the last few days, changing the position of signals and blocks as a result of the recent changes made on the Hocking Valley.

The telegraph shed at Bellefontaine-av has been moved from its former location to make room for the big water tank and other changes are expected to be seen within the next few days.

Last Excursion

According to bulletins posted in the Union Station here, the Hocking Valley excursion from Columbus to Detroit, through Marion, Saturday night, is the last excursion of the season.

During the summer the Hocking Valley has offered a great many trips to the public at special reduced rates. Many of the excursions have been well patronized by Marion residents, the specials to Detroit being by far the most popular.

The excursion train Saturday night passes through Marion at about 1 o'clock arriving in Detroit at 6 o'clock. The return trip starts at 6:30 Sunday night.

Immigrant Train

Three coaches of immigrants were carried on Train No. 15 on the Erie Railroad last night. The foreigners were bound for Chicago.

New Record

A new high record for all time in the number of cars loaded with revenue freight was established for the week ended on Sept. 4, according to reports received here.

The total for the week was 1,151,346 cars, the greatest number for any week ever recorded. This total exceeded by 15,113 cars the previous high record established the previous week when 1,136,233 cars were loaded in this country.

Compared with the same week last year, the total for the week of Sept. 4 was an increase of 48,561 cars. Increase over the preceding week on the loadings of all commodities except ore and coal were reported.

Taking Vacation

C. E. Strong claim agent, Erie Railroad, Kent Division, is taking his vacation. According to the reports of other employes in the Erie freight house, Mr. Strong is spending the week in New York.

In Mansfield

J. E. Sifritt, coal accountant, Erie Railroad, Kent Division, was in Mansfield yesterday on company's business.

Cashier Returns

Bert Brashares, cashier of the Hocking Valley freight house here, returned from Columbus where he was in attendance at the National Congress of the American Insurance Union.

On Vacation

Virgil Parsell, plat forcan for the local offices of the American Railway Express Co., is taking his vacation this week.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK IN GERMANY CALLED BRISK

Eighty-Nine Thousand Decrease in Number of Unemployed Persons Shown

Washington, Sept. 23—A continued current of optimism runs through the German business outlook, according to a cable dispatch to the Department of Commerce from Acting Commercial Attache, Douglas Miller, at Berlin.

Although a total of 1,645,000 persons were listed as "unemployed" on ever, according to figures secured at number represented a decrease of 89,000 over the army of unemployed on July 1.

The expenditure of large sums of money by the government for construction work, it was said, accounted for the relief in unemployment. More public construction has been ordered, Miller added, thus promising additional relief.

Further indication of German industrial activity was seen by the commercial attache in the large increases in imports of raw materials.

While these importations resulted in an unfavorable trade balance against Germany for the month of June, Miller declared they indicated "greater activity in German industries."

JAMES W. GERARD, WAR AMBASSADOR, ON NEW SERVICE

James W. Gerard, former U. S. Ambassador to Germany, has been appointed as the public representative on the New York state industrial commission which is making an exhaustive study of industrial and labor conditions.

DEMPSEY PUTTING FINISHING TOUCHES ON TRAINING

Blow By Blow

This is the way Marion Star Dempsey-Tunney Fight Party will get their results tonight. The show will start promptly at 7:15 o'clock, with the main bout at 8:30 o'clock.

PLAN TO ATTEND THE PARTY IN FRONT OF THE STAR OFFICE

agitated fight fans who will pay close to $2,000,000 to see the bout, can now go to the arena tonight with the assurance that the fight will be staged, weather permitting.

Philadelphia Bulging

This, the city of brotherly love, was bulging today with a mighty army of excited fight fans drawn here from every state in the union by the prospect of the thrill of witnessing the greatest sports epic in history, the 10-round battle between Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney for the heavyweight championship of the world.

Dempsey and Tunney will square off tonight in a 20-foot square ring pitched under blazing Kleig lights in the center of the mammoth Sesqui-Centennial exposition grounds before a crowd which it is estimated will reach 130,000 and pay anywhere from $1,600,000 to $2,000,000 to see the stirring sight.

Greatest Gathering

It will be a sports spectacle without precedent. The throng, packed into the vast horseshoe of concrete, will be the biggest gathering that ever witnessed a sports event anywhere in the world. It will be a cosmopolitan crowd—millionaires and hardy toilers, cabinet members and ward politicians, high brows and low brows, reformers and bootleggers, society women, railroad presidents, burglars, judges and just plain dyed-in-the-wool fight fans.

Some of those who are here or who are scheduled to come are Vice President Charles G. Dawes, John S. Fisher, republican candidate for governor of Pennsylvania; Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of War Dwight W. Davis, Governor Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania; Secretary of the Navy Curtis D. Wilbur, Governor Len Small, of Illinois; Governor Ritchie, of Maryland; Nicholas Longworth, speaker of the house of representatives, and Mrs. Longworth, Charles M. Schwab, Otto Kahn, James A. Stillman, Dudley Field Malone, Barney Oldfield, Florenz Ziegfeld and William S. Hart.

Special Trains

This morning, special trains and coaches rattled into Philadelphia one after another, disgorging their cargoes of humanity. Many of the specials were from far western points—Denver, Chicago, San Francisco, Kansas City and other western points. Trains will continue arriving with fans until well after three o'clock this afternoon when the gates at the exposition grounds will be thrown open.

The main fight is scheduled to start about 8:30 o'clock. Dempsey and Tunney will be in the ring thirty-nine minutes at most before the right hand of one of the two bronzed giants will be raised by the referee and acclaimed the winner. The battle may require considerable less time; in fact the general belief is that it will be short and sweet.

Dempsey to Get $600,000

Win, lose or draw, Dempsey probably will receive about $600,000, Rickard told International News Service. Dempsey's arrangement calls for a guarantee and a percentage of the receipts over $100,000. Tunney's share, victory or defeat, will be $200,000.

Betting odds here today were generally 2 to 1 that the champion will retain his title. Some were offering as high as three to one. There was not a great deal of Tunney money in sight. Jack Kearns, former manager of Dempsey, who is now using every means to annoy the champion as the hour for the fight approaches, said he would like to bet $100,000 on Dempsey at odds of 2 and 1-2 to 1. In other words he is willing to risk $100,000 against $40,000 Tunney money. When the two gladiators crawl through the ropes tonight, the huge crowd, packing in, tier of tier on the great horseshoe stadium, will see two splendid specimens of American manhood, two men in the proverbial "pink of condition" after weeks and months of arduous training.

Dempsey, coming here from Atlantic City and Tunney from his camp near Stroudsburg, will be in the best of physical shape. There is some doubt about the mental condition of Dempsey, who in the last 10 days has been harassed by a series of legal moves and court actions fired at him by his enemies. He has laughingly declared he has not been worried by the court action and his friends say such tactics will only serve to make the champion a furious fighter when he faces the cool, calculating Tunney.

GENE TUNNEY FLIES TO BATTLE SCENE

Philadelphia, Sept. 23—Gene Tunney, challenger for the heavyweight title, left Stroudsburg, Pa., at 10:47 o'clock standard time this morning by airplane for the scene of his title fight tonight with Jack Dempsey, according to long distance advices to International News Service today.

It was estimated that the trip would require an hour and 15 minutes.

Tunney was scheduled to weigh in here at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the offices of the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission.

The plane was a Curtis-Oriole, piloted by Casey Jones, with Wade Martin, of Philadelphia, as a passenger. The plane was to land at the League Island Navyyard at the outskirts of this city. Tunney went from his training quarters to the Shawnee Country Club from which place he hopped off.

Rickard Surprised

Tex Rickard, promoter, was surprised when informed that Tunney was flying to Philadelphia from Shawnee-on-the-Delaware.

"My arrangement with Tunney called for him to leave Stroudsburg on a special car and if he is flying now, he is doing so without my consent or knowledge and contrary to my plans," he said.

He added he thought Tunney was doing a reckless thing in view of the fact that he is one of the principals in a $2,000,000 bout.

UNABLE TO FIND ESTELLE TAYLOR

Los Angeles, Sept. 23—Efforts to locate Estelle Taylor, the movie actress, wife of Jack Dempsey, were unavailing early today. Rumor had it that she was enroute to the east to meet Dempsey after his fight today with Gene Tunney.

ders are available for a much larger output.

Superiority of the long tone travel speaker is due largely to the fact that the Marion product has a 42-inch tone travel, whereas most of the types now on the market measure only 12 inches. The Burk device fills the entire space in the top of the cabinet and the smaller devices now in use are merely box like affairs which are placed on the cabinet covers.

Mr. Burk, designer of the speaker cabinet and long tone travel speaker, is widely known among radio dealers, having been for a number of years been in charge of sales for the Stewart-Warner Co. of Ohio. His headquarters at that time were in Columbus. Mr. Burk has applied for patents on the devices marketed by the local company.

Run As Branch

The Van-Bur Radio Co. at present is operated as a branch of the Van Atta Hardware Co., which has for a number of years been one of Marion leading dealers in radio supplies. Eventually, however, it is expected to become an independent concern. It wholesales a complete line of radio accessories, such as tubes, batteries and aerial wire, in addition to the cabinets and long tone speakers. Table models and speakers are also kept in stock but the cabinet types and the long tone speakers are the products upon which the company will lay greatest stress.

Console Type

The console cabinets, all equipped with the Burk long tone speakers, are of two makes, one being of plain walnut and containing a six-tube set and the other of burled walnut with a six-tube resistance coupled set. The former retails at $120 and the latter at $175.

The speaker cabinet of walnut construction sells for $85 and another type of gum construction, for $65.

The office of the Van-Bur Co. is now located at the Van Atta Hardware Co. store. Nine people are employed in the radio department, some in office and sales work and the rest attending to the assembling at the N. Prospect-st plant. The force will be increased as larger factory production facilities are effected.

Mr. Burk and Mr. Van Atta are engaged in sales work among radio agencies throughout Ohio and surrounding territory and George Ross is handling the sale of accessories.

INDICATE COTTON CROP OF 15,810,000 BALES

Washington, Sept. 23—A cotton crop of 15,810,000 bales was indicated by the crop reporting board of the Department of Agriculture today, a condition of 59.5 per cent of normal, as of Sept. 16.

An approximate yield of 160 pounds of lint cotton per acre was estimated for the 47,207,000 acres for harvest in 1926.

AVERAGE CORN YIELD EXPECTED IN THIS COUNTY

Few Farmers Have Started Harvesting Crops; Hope for Late Frosts

If Marion County escapes frost until Oct. 1, the corn crop in this vicinity will be average, according to Roland L. Leeper, secretary of the Marion County Farm Bureau.

Despite continuous rainfall and other unfavorable weather conditions, the corn crop of Marion County prospers, and some farmers have already began harvesting.

Those who have begun harvesting their corn find that the cutting is difficult, due to the recent wind and rain storms which have, in some districts, literally flattened the stalks to the ground.

In many regions of the United States late rains have kept the corn green and growing, far beyond its time, with no pause for ripening and hardening of the kernels. Although Marion County has had more than its share of rainfall this summer, the corn is rapidly ripening and would be in "fair" shape if rain would cease for a week.

Optimstic

If early frosts come there will be a large amount of soft corn in Marion County granaries, but if this vicinity escapes the clutches of Jack Frost for another week, farmers are optimistic concerning their crops.

Cutting and harvesting of the corn crop will get under way in all sections of the county within a week, if weather conditions are reasonably favorable. Husking will not begin until late in October.

Only two townships of Marion County were invaded by the European Corn Borer this summer. The pest in those townships did little or no damage. Sections in the northern part of the estate are suffering greatly from the repeated attacks of the corn borer, it is reported.

friends and relatives in all parts of the country.

The Seaboard Airline, acting in cooperation with J. W. Young, Hollywood developer, brought the refugees here by bus truck to be transferred to their trains and sent, free of charge, northward to homes of their relatives.

Two months ago the state treasury had a cash balance of approximately $17,000,000 and no bonded indebtedness. This has been considerably lowered by reduced revenue during the summer months.

Governor Visits

The governor has been traveling almost constantly night and day since he left Tallahasse Sunday night. He has covered almost 1,000 miles by auto, met all hours of the night and day with local relief committees, untangled minor conflicts between relief workers and lent every personal aid to the suffering.

"At Fort Lauderdale, there is some dissension over the control and administration of relief work," the governor admitted.

Asked if he thought the Fort Lauderdale situation would eventually force the federal government to take charge of relief work there, Governor Martin said he hoped not, but if the Fort Lauderdale committees could not agree on plans for helping their people, he suggest that the relief work be taken out of their hands.

INSURANCE COMPANIES PLANNING PAYMENTS

Miami, Fla., Sept. 23—Insurance companies have mobilized their forces for speedy adjustment and payment of losses suffered here and in other wrecked towns.

The National Board of Fire Underwriters, New York, will send its staff of adjusters here to aid local men at once.

Statistics collected by M. R. McGruder, special representative of the National Underwriters, and editor of the Southern Underwriter of Atlanta, show total tornado, wind, storm and cyclone coverage in the state of Florida of $100,000,000, of which 60 per cent is on the east coast.

It is estimated that approximately $30,000,000 insurance was in force in Miami.

SANITARY CONDITIONS MOST SERIOUS ASPECT

Washington, Sept. 23—Sanitary conditions resulting from the Florida hurricane now constitute the most serious aspect of the situation, according to first hand reports telegraphed the American Red Cross today.

An army airplane, carrying 50,000 units of typhoid serum and other surgical supplies, left Indianapolis this morning for Miami. It will make stops enroute at Nashville, Atlanta, and Pensacola, and is due to reach Miami late this evening.

J. W. Hendrix, Red Cross official at Sebring, wired national headquarters this morning that 90 bodies had been recovered in the Moorehaven district, and it was believed the high waters contained 150 more.

TWO DESTROYERS ON WAY TO PROTECT AMERICANS

Washington, Sept. 23—The destroyers, Gilmer and Smith-Thompson, are speeding today from Guantanamo to Bluefields, Nicaragua, to assist in protecting lives and property of Americans. They were dispatched upon request of Rear Admiral J. T. Latimer, now in Bluefields.

WOULD ABANDON LINE

Washington, Sept. 23—The Ohio River and Western Railway today asked the Interstate Commerce Commission for permission to abandon its line between Bellaire and Zanesville, Ohio, a distance of 110 miles. The petition stated that motor transportation had so cut in on the road's revenues as to make it unprofitable in operation.

CONSECRATE "YOUNGEST BISHOP"

Flies Make Last Stand as Summer Weather Returns

"Eat drink, and be merry, for tomorrow we die" is the motto of the fly today.

Favored with sultry, rainy weather, the flies are making their last stand.

After almost entirely disappearing last week during several days of chilly weather the pests are back in full force with the return of summer-like atmosphere.

But the comeback is destined to be short-lived. The season of the fly is rapidly drawing to a close and the insect must soon seek winter quarters.

The forecast of the weather man today sounds a warning. Cooler weather is scheduled and that means the exit of the fly.

In the meantime, Marion dealers handling fly swatters are doing a good business as the insects swarm in their last stand before fleeing for refuge.

The season of the fly this year has been briefer than usual. Continued cool weather during the latter part of spring and forepart of the summer was unfavorable to the insect, which did not appear in large numbers until July.

If predictions of cooler weather within the next week come true, fly swatters will once again be put in storage for the winter, housewives may do their work in pchee, and husbands may hold the evening paper with two hands.

Geneva, Sept. 3—The World Court delegate conference today adopted the report of the juridicial committee, proposing that all of the United States reservations to the world court be accepted, providing a satisfactory interpretation is given by the United States on the second part of the fifth reservation.

Each member state is expected to send a separate note to the United States announcing its acceptance of the reservations, but delicately suggesting that the acceptance is conditional upon a satisfactory interpretation of the fifth reservation's latter part, which provides that the World Court shall take up no cases affecting United States interests without the consent of the United States.

It's a wonder that Texas never thought of holding her elections in September so that Democracy might have an infallible sign to show how the nation would go.

We would like to demonstrate our patriotism by taking one of those buffaloes off the government's hands, but the home must at all times be considered, and we have a pretty fair idea of what would happen should it track up our better-half's flower-beds.

Every calamity sounds the heart chord of sympathy, and California, forgetting winter resort rivalry, is among the first to render aid to stricken Florida.

Aimee McPherson is said to be collecting a defense fund "to fight the devil." Aimee should recall what happened to "Ma" Ferguson when she went into a run-off primary instead of resigning.

We glean that a $950 rate for a Mediterranean cruise de luxe is not without appeal to a well-known Columbus paragrapher. The drawback about a minimum rate stateroom is that it is usually six or eight decks below daylight and can be gained only by passing through two or three decks of assorted smells, which we take it, would be highly objectionable to the paragrapher in question for the reason that his sense of smell has been developed to such an extent that he gets the odor of the Arabs and the camels in the illustrated advertising matter received by him from the organization which is to conduct the cruise.

"The Truth Will Prevail."

It has been said that "the truth will prevail." It seems so, but sometimes the truth takes an awfully long time to do it.

This is brought out by the announcement that, after the lapse of over three centuries, the blot on the naval fame of Sir Francis Drake, one of the most famous of all Britain's naval history, has been effaced.

The charge against Sir Francis was that while leading a British fleet on the night of July 21, 1588, and guiding the ship of the fleet commander, Lord Howard, by exposing a lantern over the stern of the Revenge—the ship commanded by Sir Francis — he deserted his post merely to capture a Spanish vessel and secure loot. Sir Francis explained that he had sighted several ships and turned out of his course to investigate them. Finding them German traders seeking convoy to the English channel he ordered them to join the English fleet and when returning came upon and captured the Spanish flagship which was rich in booty. His explanation was accepted by Lord Howard but questioned by some of the other captains of the fleet at the time and has caused doubt to be cast on one action of an otherwise fine record until quite recently, when an old journal kept by the captain of one of the German traders mentioned came to light and was found to corroborate the statement of Sir Francis as to his speaking of the German traders on the night of July 21, 1588, directing them to join the English fleet and later coming upon and capturing the Spaniard.

From 1588 till 1926. That's 338 years that a blot rested upon the naval fame of Sir Francis Drake. It took 338 years for the truth to prevail in his case.

"What good did the final prevailing of the truth do him?" may be asked. The answer to this would depend on whether or not those of the world beyond are conscious of the affairs of this little world of ours.

But no matter what good may be worked to Sir Francis Drake, it has done good to the memory of him cherished by the British people despite the blot, but who rejoice that the blot has been removed. When we over here in America think of British naval commanders whose fame is secure, Nelson comes first and far in the lead of all others. But when the British consider their naval commanders of note, past and present, Sir Francis Drake stands high up on the long, long list. Throughout England one finds monuments and tablets in honor of his memory.

Youth and Morality.

Out of a bitter controversy aroused over in Illinois by an article, "Morality of Undergraduates," written by a young divinity student, Wilfred O. Cross, and printed in an Episcopal weekly publication, The Witness, has come an utterance by the Right Rev. Irving P. Johnson, its editor in chief, which makes strong appeal to us as good horse sense and most worthy of consideration.

Young Cross, a former student at the University of Illinois, in his article charges that coeducation has brought about a letting-down of youthful morals. Among other allegations made by him in support of his contention, and the one which has caused by far the greatest outburst of indignation, is that youths and co-eds danced in their pajamas in one of the cars on a college football train and that later some of the co-eds shared their berths with their partners.

This charge is not given herein as of assured value—the young divinity student offers nothing in support of it—but simply to make plain the reference made to it by the editor-in-chief of the Episcopal weekly in a message wired by him from Denver, where he happened to be when word of the controversy reached him. After stating that he had not seen the article in question before its publication and that, had he seen it, he would have rejected it, Bishop Johnson said:

"Whether the charges made by Mr. Cross are true or not I am not in a position to say. Youth is unchanging; only the methods of expressing their defiance of conventions and restraint are different.

"If there are pajama parties, and if there is gin-guzzling among the young folks at college I don't know it from actual contacts. I suppose there are students who pet and drink; there always have been and doubtless always will be. But there are also others who take seriously their chance for an education.

"I do not think it wise, however, for young persons to make such drastic statements.

"The whole country is sex mad. We don't get anywhere fulminating against sex or fuming about it. I have come to the conclusion that it might be well to give the important problem the air, as it were; stop regarding the youth with a flask of hootch in his pocket, a flapper by his side and a vacuum in his head, as of any importance."

Is there not a great degree of truth in this utterance of Bishop Johnson? Even though it may now be started on the road to recovery, is the country not sex mad? How else explain the stage displays of nakedness in New York and like displays in New York night clubs? How else explain many magazines which for months in the past have thrived? How else explain the so-called beauty shows? And is there not wisdom in the bishop's suggestion that the whole sex problem and the problem of our youth its flasks and its petting parties be "given the air?" Has not the pulpit been adding fuel to the fire in its utterances on "flaming youth?" Has not the press given this subject far too much publicity? Has not the public likewise offended? As a matter of fact, has not transgression against morality been fanned as a result of the course pursued? This manifestly straight-thinking bishop has reached this conclusion. We are inclined to lean the same way. Put the question to yourself, Mr. Reader. Has not, in your judgment, all this attention we have given to sex questions and the transgressions of youth but served to augment offenses?

The surest reason why the country will support Mr. Coolidge's take-'em-or-leave-'em attitude regarding Geneva's suggestion that we change our World court reservations is that it would be just as well satisfied should Geneva decide to leave 'em.

No matter what the result in that stadium this evening, each will have the satisfaction of knowing that he did his part in the attempt to rescue the Sesqui.

Now that he is home, it may be pointed out that Secretary Mellon spent several months in Europe without even so much as attempting to crowd into the publicity spot-light. But, then, Mr. Mellon is one of the exceedingly rare exceptions filling an office which sought the man.

Mr Upshaw still insists that the wets defeated him for that congressional nomination but the fact that his victorious opponent is also a dry might be taken to justify the suspicion that the drys have wearied of going down into their jeans for honorariums.

Now the long-missing radio operator Kenneth G. Ormison, bobs up in an interview and says that every "confession" reported by Attorney S. S. Hahn, of Los Angeles, to have been made by him is untrue; that he never has had the pleasure of meeting the attorney. That certainly was a queer box of tricks that Aimee uncovered.

Sometimes we have wondered if the public attitude toward Jack Dempsey is wholly due to his war record or rather lack of war record—or in part due to the fact that he is not a drinker, a brawler and a waster.

Almost Unbelievable.

It is hard to accept the view entertained in the vicinity of the scene of the crime that the horse killed down along the Prospect pike was deliberately and wantonly shot by a party of motorists, although indications may point that way. It is far easier to assume that the killing was not intentional, but the result of the shooting off of a rifle or revolver by a party of drunken motorists, although drunkenness is no excuse for crime and should not be permitted to weigh in palliation of crime.

Whisky may make man bestial, but the deliberate killing of the inoffensive, save for the purpose of food, is below the beasts, and any creature framed in the semblance of a human-being found guilty of such an act of fiendish cruelty should be put away for life as unfit for association with human-beings, as a menace to all living things.

Old Folks Need Water When Ill.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Today I have it in mind to tell you something of unusual importance. While it is a simple matter, attention to it may result in saving a life.

When old people get sick their vitality slips away very quickly. An illness may result fatally within a few days.

There is prostration which increases each hour. The weakness becomes profound. The heart lags. Unconsciousness and death are not far away.

It makes little difference what you call the disease—the ultimate symptoms and course are the same. A simple dysentery, an aggravated diarrhoea, a mild "ptomaine poisoning," over-exposure to the sun, the after-shock of an accident or operation—any one of these may be followed by the prostration and sinking I have described.

A year ago and again this past summer I saw almost identical cases in the same household. Both the patients were advanced in years. Both had simple dysentery. The bowel trouble disappeared in two or three days, but the depression and profound weakness continued for a week or more. One patient died, the other recovered.

Doctors are inclined to use a lot of big words. One such word is "dehydration."

You know what dehydrated fruits are — dried apples are an example. The juices have been taken out by special process or by exposure to the sun and air.

Applied to human-beings, dehydration means the abnormal and unusual extraction of water from the tissues of the body. By taking away from the diet all water and juicy foods, you can see that the body would be rapidly dehydrated. To take the place of this fluid the liquid part of the blood would be used by the system. Great harm is sure to follow.

The blood vessels must be kept full of liquid. Otherwise the heart lags and the blood pressure falls. Unless the wastes of the body are dissolved the kidneys can not act as they should. The poisons can not be eliminated by these organs and the skin. Without an abundance of water there is sure to be trouble. With no water at all, death is certain.

In such a case as the one we are considering today don't worry about food. The patient will be better off without it and will reject it anyway.

But you must give water. Water, water, and more water—this is the secret of cure. Don't permit dehydration. Feed the water out of a spoon drop by drop if need be. Encourage the patient to sip and to drink water. No matter what else you do or do not do, give lots and lots of water.

If first of the two patients I mentioned would not take water. She died. The second patient cooperated. He took the water and recovered.

Of course there are other factors involved in the treatment, but first and foremost is the giving of water.

Poems That Live.

ALL FOR LOVE.

O talk not to me of a name great in story;
The days of our youth are the days of our glory;
And the myrtle and ivy of sweet two-and-twenty
Are worth all your laurels, though ever so plenty.

What are garlands and crowns to the brow that is wrinkled?
'Tis but as a dead flower with May-dew besprinkled:
Then away with all such from the head that is hoary—
What care I for the wreaths that can only give glory?

O Fame!—if I e'er took delight in thy praises,
'Twas less for the sake of thy high-sounding phrases,
Than to see the bright eyes of the dear one discover
She thought that I was not unworthy to love her.

There chiefly I sought thee, there only I found thee;
Her glance was the best of the rays that surround thee;
When it sparkled o'er aught that was bright in my story,
I knew it was love, and I felt it was glory.

Q. Are there any insects which live in the snow? G. H. R.

A. While the majority of inspects disappear when cold weather comes, some are known to live and thrive at temperatures which kill most of their kind in a few minutes. About 300 different insects have been found living on or in the snow. About twenty-five species are known to come out on the snow in Europe and America. Some of these are so small that they are never seen except in winter, and they are so little known that they have no popular name. It is not known how, or on what, they live.

Q Is there any "different" way to make potato salad? L. C. K.

A. Soufflé potato salad is unusual and lends variety to a cold supper. Boil eight medium-sized potatoes and put them through a ricer. To this add three tablespoonfuls of vinegar, four tablespoonfuls of olive oil, one-half tablespoonful of onion juice and one teaspoonful of salt. Chill thoroughly and then beat with a perforated wooden spoon. If it is necessary to thin the mixture, use hot water, being careful not to pour so fast that the salad becomes too thin. Sprinkle liberally with paprika, dot with capers, and garnish with hearts of lettuce.

The Way of the World.

Women's voices, says a radio expert, do not carry well over the air. The trouble, he says, is due to the "high frequency" of a woman's voice. Understand that "frequency of a woman's voice" is purely a technical term. It has to do with quality and vibration—in this case.

The "physically perfect" co-ed found in Lombard college, in Illinois, attributes her prize-winning qualities to farm work. That is something to think about. Farm work makes a good foundation for beauty parlor finish. Farm work is a good foundation for many prize-winning qualities. It will do as much for golf players as golf. It will do more for office inmates than a gymnasium. And enough of it will make food prices cheaper.

The age of the maid has turned into the age of the motor. The Manchester Guardian, great British newspaper, finds that most couples, faced with the choice of going without a maid or going without a car, take the car. Good cars are plentiful and cheap. Good maids are scarce and dear.

You have thirty-five invisible slaves at hand and call. Do you use them? These are available 300 days a year, eight hours a day. These slaves are in the form of mechanical power of various kinds. Mechanical servants produce goods for us without competing with us for food. And electric power is still in the beginnings of its development. Wonderful water power sites, yet unused, will some day give us a vaster army of mechanical servants.

The extent to which various nations use mechanical power will determine their position in the world of industry. And their position in industry will determine the amount of prosperity for millions who live within the borders of those nations.

Junior Red Cross, Junior Safety councils and other child organizations in our schools will have much bearing on the next generation. Because of the activity of such organizations among the young, the grown-ups of a few years hence will be in an attitude of mind more favorable to civic improvement.

Stanley Baldwin, prime minister of Great Britain has the right idea. He believes great cities must begin a campaign against the slums. He calls slums the most fertile source of social discontent. Mr. Baldwin has sense enough to look for the causes of crime, the causes of social unrest and unhappiness, instead of for the effects of those things.

Crime breeds in slums just as pestiferous insects breed in dirty swamps. Some day city administrations and state administrations and national governments will be wise enough to get at the causes of things and not spend so much time crying about the effects.

Today's Worst Story.

BY WILL ROGERS

The worst joke I heard today was told me by a Scotchman in London. Naturally, as you might say, the talk was all about what you might call prudent care for the shillings, and this Scotchman said he didn't think that the Scotch have got quite all of the thrift. He kinda made me blush when he complimented a section of America. He said Scotland can't take the pennant for thrift more'n two seasons hand-running any more, since New England broke into the Big league, along about 1620 or so.

This Scotchman asked me for a privilege, and, of course, since he was paying for the dinner, I told him go ahead. He said he wanted to nominate for the all-world team in the thrift league a Maine farmer that was building a house on his farm, up near Augusta. It seems that this old fellow was building his house and barn all in one, and the whole thing was about a block long and only ten feet wide, and the whole side next to the road was a blank wall, without any windows in it.

"Queer house, ain't it?" said Neighbor Cabel.

"Yep," remarked the builder.

"What's the idear?"

"Well, you see," the prudent farmer answered. "The patent medicine men are always good enough to paint the side of the barn that's next to the road. So I built this here house so's to fool 'em. They'll think it's a barn and paint the whole side of it fer me with an ad fer pills. An' since it's mostly side, it won't be hard to talk 'em into painting the rest of it, too."—Copyright, 1926.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Sept. 23—That cross section of "Chinese Heller" cabaret life in Harlem [illegible] is amazing sweep. While many [illegible] town clubs are deserted, the Black Bar[illegible] cafes are filled. The patronage is [illegible] per cent. white.

Many reasons are ascribed—the [illegible] pets who play with 117 negroes and [illegible] whites, the international popularity of [illegible] brown star, Florence Mills, and that the negro is the best delineator of the emotional [illegible] expressed in the "blues" and the Charleston.

Strictly speaking there is no undue fraternizing among whites and blacks in the cabarets, at least not on the surface. Although Broadway has choice bits of salacious gossip of this beauty and that becoming enamored with some ebony Brummel it seems mostly a [illegible]

They do not dance together as they do in Paris—even in such doggy places as [illegible]. The whites have their own tables and the colored patrons have theirs. The negroes are conscious that the white people have come to watch them play—and they play.

The behavior has been orderly and so far none of the razor slashings so frequent in the old "black and tans" have taken place. The cabarets are gaudily, but expensively, fixed out and have their dazzling electric signs and uniformed doormen just as those southward.

The air is heavy with pungent perfumes. And the orchestras offer a noisy jazz jangle. Little food is sold and the biggest sale is of various table waters. The cover charges for the entertainments are about the same as down-town.

Night life there has produced many strutting dandies with canes and pearl derbies. Also girls with glossy hair whose sepia complexions are highly rouged. They are the overtones of the district and are satisfied to remain within its confines.

Today during one of those mental lapses when ideas refuse to flow I sat at a typewriter watching a left-over lonely fly cleaning its wings. Then it cleaned its head, nearly unhinging its neck—and the telephone rang. A man on the next floor wanted to know the exact meaning of the word "leprechaun." It is an out-of-town word and I know it only vaguely. It seems to me it is applied to pets. But I replied "No Spik Englis'" and hung up and when I returned the fly had completed its toilet and departed.

Moments of mental sterility that come to writers are disheartening and there are instances where they have resulted in addiction to dangerous stimulants. Some years ago a writer faced a six-weeks stretch of utter vacuity and a two-months board bill. The days were spent in agonizing self-pity. He would walk to the river and gaze longingly. His landlady cured him with a note reading: "I must ask for what you owe me or your room Saturday night." What he had tried to dose over with philosophical pity was nothing but old fashioned laziness. He merely went to work.

Who's Who and Why.

GENERAL WU PEI-FU

All eyes in China are today set expectantly on the picturesque personality of the veteran Marshal Wu Pei-fu, on whose defense of Hankow must depend the hopes of the northern "Allies." For the two other formidable warriors, Marshal Sun Chuan-Fang and the Manchurian war lord, Chang Tso-lin, have aligned their forces with him in an effort to worst the expedition of the Cantonese government to the south.

Marshal Wu Pei-fu is a man whose widespread repute as a Confucian scholar, an honest and competent general fighting for the cause of his country has won him great respect even among his enemies. Born in 1873 in the Shantung province, he joined the Peiyang Military academy near Tien-Tsin after his graduation from a Confucian school in 1898.

In order to further complete his knowledge in military matters he subsequently joined another military school at the Wu Wei Chun headquarters. Through efforts of friends he was able to obtain the position of aide-de-camp to Marshal Wang Shih Chen in 1908—a post which he held for the next two years.

In 1911 the Chinese republic was virtually established and next year Wu joined the Third division under the general command of Marshal Tsao Kun. He was shortly after commanded to proceed south on a punitive expedition against the Yunnan rebels. His skill in putting down the revolt won him the promotion to major general.

In 1917 Chang Hsun made a vigorous effort to restore the monarchy, causing a great deal of alarm. Wu opposed this move bitterly and exerted himself to make short work of Hsun's machinations. Wu's reward was another promotion to the brevet rank of lieutenant general. Two years later he was confirmed as the commander-in-chief of the Third division.

The peace congress between the rival parties in 1919 really was due to his circular telegrams to the various factions urging reconciliation. A series of promotions and rewards followed. Next year he was appointed deputy high inspecting commissioner of Chihli, Shantung and Honan, assisting Marshal Tsao, and the following month he was given the rank of full general and awarded the "Second Order of Merit." The "First Order of Merit" was to come to him the subsequent year.

In 1922 he held the post of minister of war in Liang Shihi's cabinet. But he resigned shortly after only to be promoted marshal in 1923. When Marshal Tsao Kun was made president of China, Wu became director general of the motor traffic highway construction of Chihli, Shantung and Honan.

"What?" he cried out.

"You heard me, didn't you?"

"I heard you, but—Cecily, you don't mean to tell me you didn't know?"

Cecily's tone neither rebuked nor deplored. It simply answered, expressionlessly, "Of course I didn't know. I didn't know until we went into that apartment and what's-her-name played the Wedding March and then said she was sorry, she'd thought it was Yvonne.

"How would I have known?" she challenged, as Jock remained speechless with surprise. "You never said a word about it, did you?"

His mind skimmed their mouth of association . . . and could find no actual word that he had said to her of his engagement. This was utterly inconceivable to him. Nothing, he thought, had been further from his wish than deliberately to keep Cecily in ignorance, and the discovery that he had inadvertently done so dumbfounded him. "Why," he stammered, "I — I just took it for granted you knew! I thought of course you knew, from the start! It never entered my head once that you'd need to be told—I—why, you're seen us together—you spent that one night and a couple of afternoons with Yvonne, I supposed naturally she'd tell you—"

"She told me you weren't," said Cecily very distinctly.

Then Jock swerved the roadster to the right and brought it alongside the curb, and turned off the switch. He shifted in the seat so that he faced Cecily's profile, outlined against the yellow of a near shop window. Even in his abstraction, he gave a little mental salute to the cameo perfection of that profile.

"Cecily," he said, "what do you mean?"

"Exactly what I say. Yvonne told me you and she were not going to be married." The profile was lost unexpectedly, and Cecily's eyes were wide and dark on his. "I asked her," she stated. "I asked her that first morning when you brought me back to her apartment after breakfast. She came into the bedroom with me while I collected my own things to go home with, remember?—and I said, 'Are you and Jock engaged or anything?' I thought maybe you were—she's so marvelous looking and you seemed to know each other so well. But she just laughed, and kissed me, and said, 'No, my dear, we're friends and business partners—and that's all we ever will be.'"

"'All we ever will be?'"

"That's what she said. She's said it since, too, several times."

"Well, I'm damned!"

This remark of Jock's, delivered in a manner that testified to his absolute stupefaction, became the last made by either of them for some time. Cecily pulled her coat collar high and was hidden except for her eyes, which regarded the rear of a parked truck filled with crates. Jock sat motionless; the million mingled noises of the streets assailed his ears and aggravated him...

Once, in college, he had taken an examination upon which everything depended. (In those days, "everything" meant keeping on in college.) It was a mathematical examination, and the answer to one of its questions, the most important one, had eluded him. It had jumped just an infinitesimal length beyond his brain. And the feelers of his brain had reached for it—almost caught it countless times—and every time, a boy who sat in the seat behind him had coughed. Then he had to begin all over again. . . . The street sounds now brought back the experience. They seemed to shatter his reasoning powers as that remembered cough had shattered them—so that he could not wrestle with his problem.

"Cecily," he said finally, "I give up. I just don't get it, that's all. The whole thing is a misunderstanding. I didn't mention the engagement because I simply took it for granted you knew. It's so much a part of me that I'm foolish enough to expect everyone who knows me to know it, just as they know my hair's black. As for Yvonne—well, that's what stumps me. She probably had some reason for telling you what she did—but she shouldn't have—because it isn't true. We are engaged. We have been engaged for almost a year. Why, we're going to be married within a month."

He could not even be sure that Cecily had heard him, so rigidly still she remained . . . until her voice came to him, muffled by the fur. "I hope you will be very happy, Jock," said Cecily.

With his fingers he pulled the collar down and drew her chin around so that she faced him again. "Good bless your little heart! It means a lot to me to hear you say that, Cecily—"

She cut him off. "Why don't we go on? It's getting late."

They went on.

"But of course," remarked Jock on the end of a long and thoughtful silence, "it doesn't make any difference—"

Cecily's eyes flashed, and her reply was so quick that it had the effect of a pounce upon his sentence. "Of course not!" she said. "Why should it? I—I'll be married myself before you are. I'm going to marry Bill. Right away.

"I've been meaning to tell you for days," she added.

Yvonne sat before the mirror in her dressing room. All about her were indications of a permanent leave-taking. The costumes that had hung behind a sheet in the corner were gone now, and only the sheet and a few hangers remained. Shroud and bones . . . The dressing table was quite bare, and behind Yvonne's chair two suitcases, shut and strapped, lay waiting.

It was long after midnight. They had given their final songs, made their final bow to Terrace Tavern, and Yvonne knew that even now Jock would be fuming with impatience, wondering why she did not come. Yet she sat there, without moving. From the square of glass with the light bulbs studding its edges like tiny fires, her face stared out at her. Fixed. Tragic-eyed. Only her eyes seemed living. The rest was just a surface, whitened here, painted there, with the red-gold waves of hair to form its frame. She examined this image with a curious intensity. "Oh, my dear," she choked at last, and covered her eyes with her palms so that she might not witness her own pain . . .

For a year, she had foreseen this moment. She had known herself to be nearing it, one halt unwilling footstep every day. In endless hours of solitary argument she had sought to put herself in readiness to meet it. She had said to herself, "You can't have him. He's not for such as you. You know that. He refuses to see it, even though you've told him, but you know. Make up your mind to it. Take this little year, and thank whatever gods there be you had that much." . . . She whispered these things now, again and again, her lips stirring ever so slightly, like red petals breathed upon, but she found no solace in them.

She felt that the gods were unnecessarily brutal. Could she have made this sacrifice so that Jock would know it was a sacrifice, she might have done it valiantly, upheld by the thought that throughout his life he would look back on her with gratitude. But it could not be made in such way, lest it defeat its own end. And instead, when it was over, he would despise her with all his strong young soul ... and never know ...

She was shaken by a sort of spasm that quivered the ostrich-feather trimming on her evening gown and twitched the flesh of her uncovered back and arms. Its passing left her calm. She dropped her hands. The eyes that looked out to her now were steely, inscrutable — eyes of one long schooled to deny outwardly her inward feeling. The vivid lips were steady and a shade derisive. Yvonne shrugged her shoulders. "Well,—at least I'll have done one really decent thing in my life——"

A moment later Jock's querulous knock sounded, and she opened the door to him, wearing her long chinchilla wrap and the chiffon scarf with which she always protected her throat from the night air. She tried not to look at him. For the sake of composure, she knew it was better not to look at him. Yet her eyes were drawn irresistibly, and she tortured herself with his comeliness. Polished hair, brown laughing eyes, uneven mouth...and the splendid indolent length of frame... These familiar things had never had such poignancy. She could have cried aloud, and thrown herself upon him.

She said evenly, "If you'll take this luggage——"

Quicksands of Love

BY ADELE GARRISON

AT my announcement that I was ready to hear what he had to say, Dicky uttered an angry imprecation at which I lifted my eyebrows.

"You'll have your delicate feelings shocked worse than that," he snapped, and I saw that I had completed the process which he himself describes as "annexing his Angora." I rejoiced, wickedly for there was method in my attempts to irritate him. Dicky angry is Dicky indiscreet, and I hoped to be able to find out more concerning Edith Fairfax's share in bringing Dicky to the restaurant where he had found me lunching with Philip Veritzen.

But to my disappointment, he did not mention Edith's name again. I reflected that he also had had time for taking stock, and that, regretting his indiscreet admission concerning her, he no doubt meant to avoid all further comment on her. In itself, however, that was a damning admission to me that she had been the source of Dicky's information and his rancor, for I knew his generous nature, and that he would have spoken vehemently in her defense if he honestly could have done so.

"We'll just finish this right here and now," he said. "You've gotten me all wrong on this thing. As far as I personally am concerned, I don't care a continental whether you lunch with Veritzen or any other man at any time you wish. But you happen to be Junior's mother, and I don't choose—"

At last he had said the one unforgivable thing. I sprang to my feet, choking.

"You—you—dare," I finally articulated— "to hint that I have done anything unbecoming in Junior's mother."

As always when he goes too far, and realizes it Dicky became incoherently penitent.

"Good God! No!" he shouted. "I'm only trying to save you from the comment which invariably follows a married woman's frequent appearance in a restaurant with a man not her husband."

I put aside my anger, for I saw that he really had not meant the atrocious thing he had said, and prepared to enjoy myself.

"I suppose," I said coolly, "that it is the same sort of comment which follows a girl who lunches with another woman's husband."

His look of astonishment was ludicrous. Patently this side of the question had not occurred to him at all. Before he could answer me I spoke again. Quite slowly, judicially.

"The trouble with you, my dear husband," I said, knowing that Dicky especially dislikes being swooned in that manner, "is that in all your married life you have been an especially fortunate gander, because your particular goose never has objected except sporadically to the games of flirtation and attentions of other women which you have served her."

"Sporadically" is good," Dicky interposed with one of his lightning changes from anger to mischief, but I went on, ignoring his interruption.

"But in the last few weeks," I went on, "the goose has made up her mind that it may benefit her gander to partake of the same sauce, develop his patience and his forbearance, as it were. In other words my dear Dicky, as long as you lunch with other women I shall accept similar attentions from any man I choose. I'll go further than that. It does not make any difference to me whether you philander or not. I shall accept whatever invitations I choose without consulting you. I do not recall that you ever asked my permission to take an attractive woman to lunch."

A peremptory knock upon the door prevented Dicky's answering. He sprang to his feet and went to the door.

A telegraph messenger stood outside holding out a white envelope.

"Cablegram for Mrs. Graham," he said.

Dicky looked at me with a sneer.

"I suppose that's from dear Hughes the faithful Fido," he said.

Easy to check Catarrh NOW!

Few people put up with catarrh willingly. Yet many endure its discomforts because they do not know how easy it is to end it. Salves and ointments give temporary relief. But catarrh is too deep-seated for them to reach effectively. To end catarrh you must treat the inflamed mucous membranes—the delicate linings of nose, throat and head. When these are again in a healthy condition catarrh disappears. Bad breath, catarrhal deafness and other symptoms vanish. For over 40 years Hall's Catarrh Medicine has been the outstanding successful method of combating catarrh. Its effectiveness has been proved by thousands. Get it at any druggist's. Or send 65c to F. I had not taken all of one bottle when I was up and able to do some work. I am truly a booster for Lydia E. County Fair Parade Floats To Depict Events In Career of Col. Crawford

Bucyrus, Sept. 23—One hundred years ago a committee of men in this community went before the state senate and asked that this territory be made into a county which measure was accomplished January 21, 1826. The county at its organization included Wyandot which in 1845, was established under that name.

A fitting celebration for this centennial has been contemplated by organizations through the county but the true date of January 21 is so unappropriate in regards to weather conditions that the celebration was scheduled in connection with the county fair.

The Crawford County Historical Society, the Bucyrus Chamber of Commerce and the county fair board promoted the idea of an historical parade. A committee was then formed which included members from various parts of the county to work out plans for the event and those included were: J. J. Bliss, chairman; Frank Hopley, J. E. McLaughlin, H. A. Barth, H. O. Sharp, I. Nussbaum, Martin Seibel and C. F. Hoover.

Each of the sixteen townships will be represented by three floats, Chatfield, New Washington, Leesville, Crestline, Galion and Bucyrus will each have three or more floats. Events of historical interest through the county will be portrayed, in each case the locality portraying the incident will be nearest where this past event took place. There will be three outstanding features depicting the troublesome career of Col. Crawford. The first will be "Crawford and His Followers;" the second, "The Capture of Crawford," by Jefferson township in which locality the capture was actually made, third, "Crawford at the Stake," by Todd township, which is nearest the spot in Wyandot County where Col. Crawford was burned. Various other centers will have namesake portrayals such as Todd, for Gov. Todd; Polk for President Polk; Jefferson and Jackson for the presidents of the same name and Dallas for vice president. Pictorial reviews of the Delaware and Wyandot Indians will also be presented.

Mr. Bliss estimates that there will be 75 floats together with horsemen and bands. Another pleasing feature will be a flag formed by 150 women of New Washington, which won instant acclamation, when that village held its centennial last summer. Brigadier General Edward Vollrath, the eldest in rank and years of the soldiery of the county has been asked to be the chief marshal of this parade and he will have five aides who will each marshall the six divisions of the event.

Prizes will be awarded to the best and most beautiful floats and include three sums, the first, $25; the second, $15, and the third, $10.

Immediately following the historical parade an industrial parade will be given by merchants showing the progress of that line in this vicinity. At the close of this there will be races by pioneer horsemen and by Indian ponies with the National Guard in Galion and Bucyrus in charge.

This parade will be given Wednesday, Sept. 29, at the fairgrounds on the track at 5 o'clock and weather reports from the state offices foretell clear, cool weather upon this date. This has no connection with the historical pageant to be given at the night fair.

RACE CAR TURNS OVER ON TRACK; DRIVER HURT

Accident Mars Success of First Day's Speed Program at Hardin County Fair

Kenton, Sept. 23—Bryon Heilman, 28, local garageman, is recovering in the McKittrick hospital today from injuries sustained late Wednesday afternoon when his light racing car, No. 13, skidded during to Hardin County fair auto races, struk a stalled machine and turned over pinning him beneath it.

Physicians following a careful examination, said the injured driver sustained a broken shoulder bone, cuts and bruises about the body and possibly minor internal injuries.

Hundreds of people attending the opening of the county's agricultural exposition witnessed the spectacular accident, that marred the five mile motor race billed as the feature on the speed program.

Heilman took his wild plunge as his car, traveling at a high rate, was rounding the back stretch on the half-mile racing course. The track had been rendered slippery by a slow drizzling rain that started falling soon after the race got under way. Many who crowded around the scene of the accident lifted the car off the driver and rushed him to the hospital.

George Fitzpatrick, a baker, was declared winner of the race doing the ten laps around the half mile track in 8 minutes and 45 seconds. Four other entries dropped out soon after the race started.

The farmers' half-mile harness race was won by Sleepy Pat, owned by J. Jordan, in straight heats, his best time being 1:09. Farmer Boy driven by C. Graves finished 2, 3 and 2, while Billy Auther, with Paul Keckler up, took third money.

Barlin Arlington, from the Dible-Kelley stables, copped the green pace, finishing 1, 3 and 1. The best time for the mile was 2:30. Martinivitch, driven by Dr. J. Solt finished second in this event, and Bessie Burns of the Chamberline string, third.

W. O. Dowling, Belle Center, acted as starter, with G. W. Schindewolf, Dr. Clark Rider and Gus Detweiller, as judges.

AKRON PAPER PAYS TRIBUTE TO MINISTER

Rev. Charles Hull Leaving Eastern Ohio City To Accept Bucyrus Pastorate

Bucyrus, Sept. 23—In an editorial "Akron Loses a Friend," The Akron Beacon-Journal yesterday paid tribute to Rev. Charles Hull who recently accepted a pastorate at Bucyrus.

The editorial said:

"Akron regrets to learn that the Rev. Charles Hull has resigned as assistant rector of the Church of Our Savior. In the years of his ministry here, in association with Dr. George P. Atwater this young clergyman has won the confidence and good will of Akron people. This tribute did not come to him by favor because he was an Akron boy, educated in Akron schools, and began his ministry in his own city. He has deserved all the praise he has received through the enthusiasm and intelligence with which he applied himself to his work and his ability to meet all its requirements. He was chosen to deliver the centennial oration for Akron because of his high talent as a speaker, his special acquaintance with the history of the community, and his interest in Akron's welfare.

"The same qualities resulted in his being accorded the honor of speaking the community voice upon other occasions when a true interpreter of the sentiments of its heart and soul was needed. In line with this service was his address in the Akron celebration of Mother's day, his eulogy being broadcast by radio and later published in pamphlet form in recognition of its worth. He is an Episcopal clergyman who will grow with the coming years to ever greater influence in his church.

"Even as Akron could not bear to part with Dr. Atwater, it with no better grace reconciles itself to losing his faithful assistant, who wrought by the side of his leader to make the Church of Our Savior a mighty force in the religious life of Akron. The Bucyrus church is fortunate in gaining the services of one so capable and loyal."

Rev. Hull has served the Church of Our Savior, Akron as curate for the past eight years. He will leave on Oct. 1 to assume charge of St. James' parish, Bucyrus. He spent the earlier part of his life at Akron and attended Akron university for three years, his fourth year being spent at Kenyon.

Along with his experience in the ministry he has taught in the schools at Willoughy, O. and had charge of the lecture department and the foreman's school at the Goodyear university.

SHEET METAL WORKER TAKES STRONGER HOLD ON HIS JOB
Has No Fear of Sickness Since Using Tepee Herb Tonic.

ELMER REVALEE
I'm feeling like a new man since taking Tepee Herb Tonic. Although my work as a sheet metal worker is no easier than it was before still it seems easier. That's because I'm so much stronger," says Elmer Revalee, 613 Sheridan St., Richmond, Ind.
Tepee Herb Tonic has relieved thousands of people of dyspepsia, headaches, nervousness, dizziness, constipation and other ailments that arise from a general run down condition of the system and Mr. Revalee is no exception of the general rule.
Continuing he says: "Before taking Tepee I had been having trouble with my stomach. I got so bad that I could hardly eat anything without suffering for hours. I had a heavy feeling in the pit of my stomach all of the time. Gas formed and pressed up against my heart and sometimes I had to fight to get my breath.
"I got so bad I was afraid to eat anything and didn't eat any more than was necessary to keep me alive. I lost weight right along.
"A friend told me about Tepee Herb Tonic. I tried it and I want to say that it is the only medicine thatever gave me any relief. I have only taken about six bottles and already I have gained eight pounds. My stomach is in good condition and my food does not distress me.
"My wife was nervous. I got her to use Tepee Tonic and it did her as much good as it did me. She has gained several pounds in weight. We are both firm believers in Tepee Herb Tonic."

Dempsey Favored To Win In Early Rounds

RIGHT HAND IS TUNNEY'S HOPE, SAY DOPESTERS

Challenger May Suffer If Cornered in Champion's Rush

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

Philadelphia, Sept. 23 — Something like 130,000 persons are going to crowd their way in to see the fight between Jack Dempsey, champion, and Gene Tunney, challenger, for the heavyweight championship of the world tonight.

Just how Jack Dempsey will fare, after his three years of gymnasium title juggling, notwithstanding, seems to be a very much cut and dried affair, if you listen to all the broadcasting along Broad-st.

Some great deal of attention is turned to the thought that perhaps after all this Dempsey man from Manassa is still rather qualified to keep championing right along until our Mr. Rickard can stake him out on location for another big shot.

The boys are off the fence at last and today sharpshooting is point-blank. They will tell you here in this city of brotherly love, if you appear to be the least interested on what may or may not happen in the Sesqui Stadium tonight, that Jack Dempsey can be considerably off that 1923 form and still give Gene Tunney too much to think about in 1926.

Some of the boys are real sanguine about it and most sanguine of all, perhaps, is this Jack Kearns. This Kearns man, who has been knocking about with Dempsey, who knocks right back, would be the last person in the world, the gentle reader might think, who would pick his former playmate to come out first.

Also Benny Leonard comes out with the declaration that he can't see how the champion is going to lose.

Tunney's right hand seems to be the only out that may send the experts into hiding, but this Manassa man, hitting history tells us, stopped some of the greatest right hands in the business and lived to boast about it.

Trained observers have watched Tunney do his work in the corners and against the ropes and they are agreed that Gene doesn't quite get the hang of all this stuff. He is too slow of foot, it is believed, and may do himself no lot of good if Dempsey corners him and begins lathering him with hooks to the head and the right to the body.

CLEVELAND GOLFER MAKES HOLE-IN-ONE

Grantwood Golf Club has another hole-in-one man. Walter Ross, attorney, did the trick on the sixth hole while playing with Dick Jones, professional at the club.

JACK DEMPSEY

Dempsey Will Specialize On Body Blows; Confident

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 23—Jack Dempsey's plans today called for a late departure for Philadelphia. He may not leave here until about 5 o'clock, which would get him into Philadelphia at 6. He will travel in a special car attached to a regular train and the car will carry Gene Normile, his manager; Jerry the Greek, Mike Traut, Gus Wilson, Captain Mabbutt and others of his retinue.

"I have a lot of respect for Tunney," said Dempsey as a sort of farewell salute in the matter of predictions. "I figure he's a good man. But so were about a dozen others that I've bumped into through the past eight years. I bumped them off and I'm rather confident that I can do it to Tunney.

"I don't think he likes 'em very much in the body. Nobody does. It's more than annoying. So I'm going to play for the body as the main target, but I'll be always watching for a nice good solid shot to the chin. But beating his body and rapping his chin I think will bring him down. I'm lucky with my punches. I may do it in the first round. Certainly I'm going to try. If I'm not so lucky and am not placing my punches right on the vital spots, it'll take longer, but I'm going into that ring a champion and I am coming out a champion."

Harding High Scrimmages Hard Before Capital Game

Harding High School's Varsity football team held its initial scrimmage last night at the fairgrounds against the reserves. Nearly 30 beginners and last year veterans were used by Coaches Paul Sprout and Allen Compton to stop the first string men who apparently enjoyed the field after working the last two weeks in the stone quarry at the rear of Junior High School.

Many changes were made before the first team began to show unity. Plays were also numerous and new men worked well on each of the practice teams.

Practice will be held again this afternoon and possibly Friday before the local squad journeys to Columbus Saturday to meet Central High in their opening game.

The number of players to make Saturday's trip has not been announced but it is likely that 30 will be with the team. All other men will go to see the game while a number of fans will remain in the North Central Ohio League territory to witness league games.

Harding High will appear against the Columbus eleven in new equipment.

POORMANS TUNE UP FOR O. S. R.

Mansfield Champs Coming To Revenge Labor Day Defeat

Poorman's Garage baseball team cut their weekly practice short last night on account of rain. They are preparing for Saturday's game with the fast Ohio State Reformatory nine from Mansfield. Saturday's games will be played at Lincoln Park.

Preliminary Contest

The first game will be called at 1:30 o'clock and will be a championship contest between the best kitten ball teams in Marion and Mansfield.

Marion's picked team has not been named but will be composed chiefly of Anthony Cleaner All Stars who held the Mansfield Daily Journals scoreless in two ten inning games and then walloped them, 11-7 in the final game at Mansfield one week ago Monday. No runs were scored in either of the first games of the Mansfield-Marion series.

The Poorman Garage baseball team is one of the two or three that has been able to defeat the O. S. R. team this season. The Mansfielders are Industrial League pennant winners and a real fighting team. Poorman's handed them a 7 to 6 ten inning defeat Labor Day at Seccalum Park.

The Reformatory team will be accompanied by its 33 piece band and talented male quartet which does considerable entertaining in Mansfield and neighboring cities.

Gerrin and Roseberry will be the Poorman battery Saturday and the baseball game will be called as soon as possible after the recreation game.

HAWAIIAN STAR WITH DAYTON

Coach Banjan will start a veteran team with the exception of Bob Swan at left half when the Flyers of the University of Dayton tackle Bowling Green in the opening encounter of the '26 Grid Season. This Swan is a triple-threat man who comes to Dayton heralded as a greater half-back than his predecessors, Achiu and Cabrinha. Swan is a Hawaiian passes remarkably well, punts above 50 yards, and is an excellent broken field runner.

Indians Win And Decrease Yanks' Lead To Only Two Games; Cards Have Cinch

New York Loses Again 2 to 1 to White Sox, Cleveland Downs Red Sox, 5 to 1; Cincinnati Must Win Every Game To Tie Cards and St. Louis Must Drop One

New York, Sept. 23—Cincinnati will be the only pennant leader in action today. The Reds, who are now [illegible] games behind St. Louis as a result of the Cardinals' victory over Brooklyn yesterday, have a chance to tie the leaders, provided they win all their remaining games and St. Louis loses one of two games with the Giants.

New York still has a lead Cleveland by [illegible] having lost to Chicago [illegible] Cleveland was beating [illegible] team has four more [illegible] and New York must win [illegible] to clinch the pennant if [illegible] all of its remaining games.

The Yankees gave their followers [illegible] failure again by losing to the White Sox 2 to 1. Thurston held the Yanks to four hits while Shocker was invincible until the ninth.

Cleveland steadily closing the gap on the Red Sox, 5 to 1, and cut New York's lead to two games.

Taking advantage of Cincinnati's idleness, the Cardinals walloped Brooklyn, 15 to 7, and stretched their lead to two and one-half games.

Lester Bell got a double and three triples.

Hi [illegible] Scott and Hartnett gave [illegible] a 6 to 2 victory over the Giants.

Washington made it four straight over the Browns, scoring five runs in the sixth and winning, 6 to 3.

The Athletics gave Whitehill a vacation and smothered the Tigers, 8 to 2.

Pittsburgh advanced to within two games of second place by taking the final game with the Phillies, 9 to 3. Traynor got a single, a double and a homer.

OORANG INDIANS START TRAINING

Receiving Requests for Independent Games at La Rue Headquarters

LaRue, O., Sept. 23—Jim Thorpe may again be a member of the famous Oorang Indians Football Club although, it is not certain at this time that the great Indian will accept terms, but the Oorang management feels reasonably sure that he will appear in the opening game.

The team will be captained this year by Emmett McLemore (Chief Red Fox) former captain of the Haskell Indian University eleven. The Big Chief Long Time Sleep, Running Water, Baptiste Thunder and Pappio of Haskell and Carlisle Universities will again be in the Indian lineup also big Chim Linrel (Tomahawk) formerly of West Virginia University.

The Oorang Team is made up of some of the best Indian stars in the country and also some well known pale face college stars.

The Indians training camp is located at LaRue (The home of the world's largest airdale and hunting dog kennels). Among those nationally and internationally prominent who maintain an interest in the Oorang business as stockholders are: Jim Thorpe, famous Indian athlete; Tris Speaker, veteran playing manager of the Cleveland Indians; Ty Cobb, Detroit Tigers star; Charley Paddock, famous sprinter; Horace Lytell, prominent writer; Nick Altrock, member of the Washington Senators and baseball comedian extraordinary.

The Oorang team was a member of the National Professional Football League for two seasons, but, on account of getting a late start they will not be a member of either the National or American League this season and will book only the best independent teams. A schedule is now being made up and as the team is very popular, requests for games are being received from all over the country.

LOCAL TOURNEY POSTPONED FOR BIG LEAGUERS

Close Races Make Big Show Stars Work Overtime

Professional baseball plans here for the remainder of the season are somewhat "up in the air." It is very probable that the tournament scheduled for Oct. 3, will be set back a week until Oct. 10. Manager Francis Bacon has received word from one of the teams which is expected to appear in the tournament that the closeness of the race in the National League has made it impossible for them to engage the services of one or two players they had planned to bring here. It is thought that setting the tournament back one week will give all the teams their chance to "load up" as the major league races will then be history.

Big Stars Coming

It is almost a certainty that Ed Wells of the Detroit Tigers, and Nick Altrock of the Washington Senators will be here. If Cincinnati is nosed out of the National pennant, Eddie Roush will probably be here. In the event that St. Louis does not win, there is a strong possibility that Billy Southworth, the National League's hitting hero, will be in one of the games.

An effort is being made to line up a strong attraction for the date left open by the postponing of the tournament. Advances have been made to different teams, among whom are the Willard team, which gave Marion a hard game a few weeks ago.

Swinehart Tires Here Sunday

There will be but one game at the park Sunday. The Swinehart Tires of Akron will take the place of the Mendel Tailors of Columbus, who were forced to cancel. This will give Marion fans a good game, as both teams will be out to win the "rubber." The Akron boys expected to win both games last Sunday, and the Marion team is still "sore" over losing the first game of the doubleheader.

Bacon has not announced his pitching selection, but will have Reese, Sharrock and Main on hand. Whichever shows the best form in warming up will draw the assignment. It is probable Ewing will make a third attempt to beat Marion.

DAYTON-BOWLING GREEN

The University of Dayton Flyers open their 1926 season on Saturday, Sept. 25 with Bowling Green Normal College. This team last year was champion of Little Ohio Conference composed of Northern Ohio teams; they won 3, tied 3, lost 1. They have a green but heavy team. Their line averages 195 pounds, their backfield 194. Dayton will be outweighed 15 pounds, to the man on the line and 30 pounds to the man in the backfield.

Man Leaps From Car When Apprehended By Marysville Officer, Then Surrenders

Quantity of Liquor Confiscated and Arrest Made by Deputy Sheriffs Pfarr and Harger in Activities Yesterday

Marysville, Sept. 22—While officers Anthony Pfarr and Frank Harger were returning from an investigation trip on the Marysville-Columbus-rd Wednesday morning they met two Chrysler cars, which looked suspicious to them. The first driven by a man captured with a liquor car here several weeks ago is thought to have accompanied the liquor car as a decoy. It did not contain any booze and the occupants, a man and woman, claimed they had nothing to do with the other car.

While Officer Pfarr was interviewing the occupants of the first car, Officer Hager started down the road to stop the driver of the second car. The latter seeing the officer coming toward him jumped from his car and started across the field. The officer fired his gun into the air and the fugitive stopped and gave himself up. The driverless car kept on down the road, narrowly missed Officer Pfarr's car and went into the ditch, damaging a fender.

The liquor together with the driver of the liquor car, Jasper Spada, of Detroit, were brought here and placed in the county jail. The car was taken to the H. I. Huffman garage to await disposal by local officials. Spada was arraigned before Judge E. W. Porter today.

Ask Contract Release

In the suit of J. H. Clark vs. Albert Phipps and others, the defendants ask that upon the payment of $571.75 due the plaintiff, they be released from further obligation in a contract. The defendant, Albert Phipps et al., had a contract for the erection of a modern dwelling for Clark. The latter claims the building has numerous defects for which he has filed suit to recover part of the money paid to Phipps. C. A. Hoopes of Marysville is attorney for the latter.

Woman Is Held

A woman, giving her name as Mable Holycross, aged 25, and the wife of Charles Holycross, is lodged in the County Jail, being brought here by local officers, after being taken by Urbana officials. It is believed that she can give information to the numerous thefts of chickens which have occurred in various parts of Union County. She is a sister of Walter Lamber, in jail in Greenville, and who has a charge awaiting him here for running over and injuring John Wise, of Leesburg township, when the latter attempted to capture him as he was making his getaway from the farm of Arthur Amrine west of Marysville, where he was caught stealing chickens. It is thought that Mrs. Holycross and her husband were accomplices of Lamber in the various thefts committed in Union, Champaign and Darke Counties.

Daily Bedtime Story

BY HOWARD GARIS

Uncle Wiggily and His Friends

Once upon a time there were two little red spotted Squiggle Bugs named Abee and Beebee. They were crawling along near the coop house of Mrs. Cluck, the hen lady, one day, when the Squigglers found an empty egg shell, quite evenly broken in two parts, or halves.

"Oh, look what I have found!" buzzed Abee.

"I found it as much as you did!" cried Beebee.

"Of course you did," answered Abee. "We both found it together and we shall now go traveling around all the world."

"Traveling around the world in an egg shell! What do you mean?" asked Beebee.

"I'll show you," explained Abee. "This egg shell is hollow, just like Cinderella's golden pumpkin coach, or an automobile, or a railroad car, or anything else one travels in. Once there was an egg in this shell, but I guess Mrs. Cluck took it out to make a cocoanut cake."

Abee was a bit wrong about that, for what Mrs. Cluck had made was a chocolate cake. However, let that pass. Anyhow the shell was empty.

"You and I will get inside—you in one half the shell and I in the other half," went on Abee. "We can fasten the edges together with some sticky gum from the pine tree. Then we can go rolling along and travel all over the world."

"What will make the egg roll?" Beebee wanted to know.

"You and I, of course," answered the other red spotted Squiggle bug. "We will jump somersaults over each other's back inside the shell. That will start the egg to rolling like a ball and we shall thus travel."

The Squigglers placed themselves inside the two halves of the empty egg shell, fastening it together with sticky gum from the pine tree. Then Abee jumped over Beebee's back and Beebee jumped over Abee's back, and this motion caused the egg to roll along.

Uncle Wiggily was one of the first to see the rolling egg. The rabbit gentleman had hopped away from his hollow stump bungalow to look for an adventure and, all of a sudden, along came rolling the egg.

"Ha! Ha!" laughed the bunny to himself. "Charlie or Arabelle, the chicken children, must be around here, rolling eggs for fun." But when he looked and waited for the little rooster chap and his sister, they did not come out of the bushes. Still the egg rolled on.

"That is very strange!" exclaimed the bunny. "I might even say it was magical and surprising. And if I did not know better, I should say that egg was bewitched. But there must be a reason for it rolling as it does, even up hill, and I'll find out about it."

Uncle Wiggily gently held out one paw and stopped the rolling egg. Then, all at once, from inside, out through some tiny air holes he had made, spoke the voice of Abee asking:

"Who stopped our rolling egg?"

"I did, if you please!" answered Uncle Wiggily. "But who is inside the rolling egg?"

"We are!" answered Bebee, and he and his brother opened the stuck together shell a little way and looked at Uncle Wiggily, whom they knew very well.

"Bless my pink, twinking nose!" cried the rabbit gentleman, as he laughed. "What are you doing in an egg shell?"

"Traveling around to see the world," answered Abee.

"And we joggle and jiggle the egg shell and make it move by jumping somersaults over each other's backs," explained Beebee. Uncle Wiggily laughed harder than ever.

The Squiggle Bugs had fastened the halves of the shell together again, and they started to roll up hill to get to the top and see more of the world when, all of a quickness, the Woozie Wolf popped out of the bushes to get the rabbit gentleman.

But when the bad chap saw the egg rolling up hill he was so surprised that he tucked his tail between his legs and howled:

"Oh, that must be a magical egg! There must be a fairy inside and she will turn me into a pancake! I'm going to run!" And away ran the Wolf. He was not wise enough to stop and see what was inside the egg. Then away rolled the Squigglers to see the world and they had a fine time.

So if ever you see an egg tumbling up hill don't be afraid, for it will only have Squiggle Bugs inside, and you must say "hello!" to them. And if the eye of the needle will watch the head of the pin trying to crawl under the hatrack, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Jack's legs.

Go ahead when you think you are right, but don't expect the crowd to follow you.

I ALWAYS FEEL SORRY FOR POOR MEN WHO HAVE TO WORK AND SLAVE ALL DAY IN THE HOT SUN - THEIR LIVES SEEM SO DRAB AND CHEERLESS - NOTHING TO LOOK FORWARD TO BUT HARD WORK DAY IN AND DAY OUT-
WHAT DO YOU MEAN HARD WORK? THE WAY THOSE SLOW PICTURE ARTISTS ARE LAYING THAT SIDEWALK YOU'D THINK THEY WERE SETTING DIAMONDS IN A CRYSTAL FRAME - WHY, DON'T YOU FEEL SORRY FOR THE POOR CHAUFFEURS WHO HAVE TO DRIVE THEM TO WORK EVERY DAY? OR SPARE A LITTLE SYMPATHY FOR ME? I HAVE TO WORK FOR EVERY DIME I GET BUT I DON'T SEE YOU SPILLING ANY TEARS OVER MY SAD FATE -
YOU DON'T KNOW THE MEANING OF WORK - JUST AS SOON AS YOU FINISH DRESSING IN THE MORNING YOUR WORK IS OVER FOR THE DAY - THE ONLY TIME YOU HURT YOUR HANDS IS WHEN YOU PICK UP A SET OF GOLF BLISTERS - YOU HAVE A SPLENDID SET OF VOCAL CORDS BUT THEY WON'T HELP YOU MUCH IF YOU EVER HAVE TO BUILD A CEMENT SIDEWALK -

RAIL AND OIL ISSUES ARE MARKET FEATURES

Nickle Plate Stocks Register Substantial Gains in Sales Today

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

Railroad stocks firm; industrial stocks irregular; domestic bonds steady; foreign bonds fairly steady; call money 5 1-2 per cent; grain steady; copper steady; oil irregular; cotton irregular; rubber steady; sugar steady; pig iron steady; foreign exchange fairly steady.

New York, Sept. 23—After a further unsuccessful attempt to unsettle the market for industrial and specialty stocks, the bearish professionals started a general covering movement in the stock market today, and most of the early losses were regained.

Today's session was a dull professional affair, of little significance or interest to those who have taken no "position" on either side of the market.

The real strength in speculative stocks was to be seen in the Nickel Plate rails and a few of the California oils. Chesapeake & Ohio forged ahead to 175 for a new gain of six points, while New York, Chicago & St. Louis crossed 200 for the first time in its history, advancing five points to 203.

Union Oil of California was pushed up about four points to above 58 on indefinite merger talk, this being the solid performer in the petroleum group.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Peaches dropped back to their former level of $1.75 a bushel in many of the Marion fruit houses, today. All peaches sold in the markets were home grown or lake region variety.

Many of the dealers are making daily trips to the lake shore to purchase peaches at low figures to present them at the lowest possible price in this city.

The best grade and variety of peaches of the season are now gracing the many Marion markets. A large supply is also found in nearly all the houses.

Local fruit dealers declare that the present peach supply also outnumbers that of former years. Peach sales in several of the uptown markets have run as high as 500 bushels a week, according to figures.

Higher priced stores made several quotations on their supplies, selling from $2 to $2.25 a bushel.

Cranberry prices are as low at the present as in mid-season, dealers claim. Today 15 cents was the usual price. Two quarts sold for 25 cents.

Callie hams were selling at 22 cents a pound, three cents more than the price asked last week. Pork chops were available in two grades, 30 and 35 cents a pound. Lard was steady at 17 cents a pound.

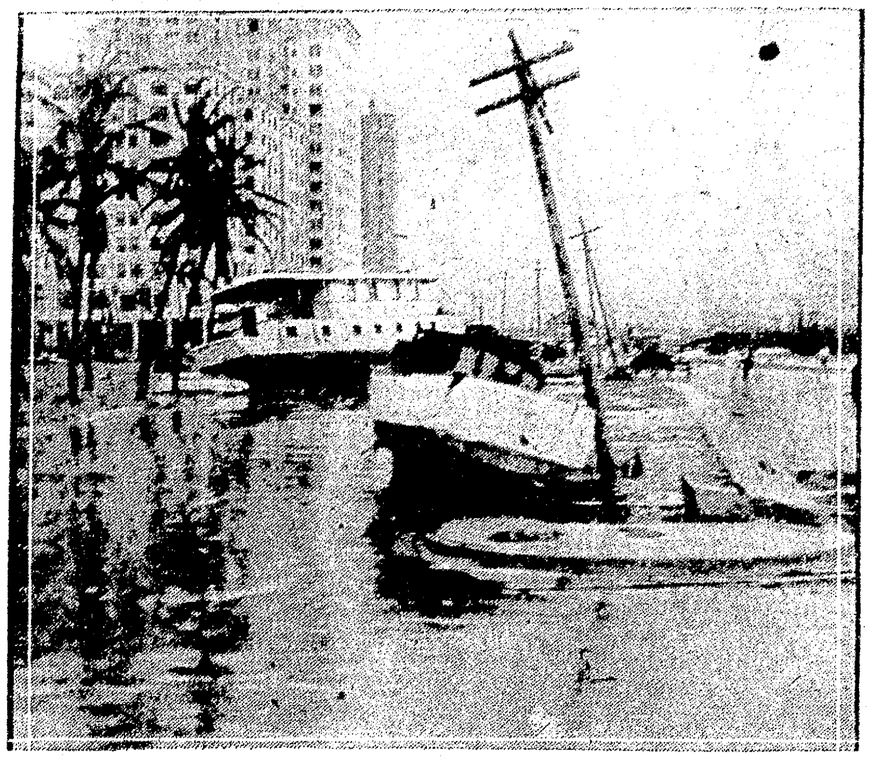
FLORIDA STORM SWEEPS BOATS QUARTER MILE INLAND



The tremendous force of the storm which devastated much of Florida and parts of the Gulf Coast is vividly illustrated by this glimpse of the storm's after math in one of the principal streets of Miami. Boats from the shores of Biscayne Bay, a quarter of a mile away, swept into the heart of the business section, are shown stranded there in the receding waters.

BRINGS COURT ACTION AGAINST J. E. MESSENGER

N. R. Hildreth Seeks To Restrain Treasurer from Collecting Assessments

Norton R. Hildreth, 360 W. Columbia-st, today filed action in Common Pleas Court against County Treasurer James E. Messenger, asking for a court order restraining the treasurer from collecting $1,222.90 claimed due as assessments on the paving of Uncapher-av.

Hildreth is the owner of a property at the corner of Dartha-st and Uncapher-av and was assessed the sum following the paving of the street and installation of a drainage system, according to the petition.

AFTER HOUSECLEANING—WHAT?

If your cleaning problems were ended, once you had the house in order for winter, you might be willing to worry through the fall housecleaning without The Greater Hoover. But when you consider the week-in and week-out drudgery that will be yours this winter, without this most efficient of all cleaning aids, can you afford to do without its amazing efficiency?

Your rugs and carpets, with this new Hoover, will be 131% cleaner than with even the best previous Hoover model!

"Positive Agitation" is the secret of this new cleaning efficiency. It lifts the rug on a cushion of air and vibrates it rapidly, loosening the deep-buried, penetrating grit, and agitating it to the surface to be suctioned away.

Let us show you this revolutionary new cleaning principle. Telephone and we'll send a Hoover out to clean your rugs, without charge or obligation.

Only $6.25 down, complete with dusting tools; balance in small monthly amounts

I smile to sign the check!
